A GENERAL VIEW OF WHAT A CHANGE IN GOVERNMENT MEANS.

The Opposition Upon Questions Pertaining Thereto and a Natural Desire Manifested by John Bull to Have Canada Come Into the Commercial Sun Rather Than Stand Out for Its Rights—The State of Feeling in Washington.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—There was a long session of the Cabinet council this afternoon, at which all the members were present except Sir John Thompson, and which sat until after dark. It is understood that the latest cables from the Imperial capital in regard to the commercial relations of the Dominion with the United States were considered, and the general opinion of the Ministry in regard to the matter was discussed. There was a general feeling, it is said, that a change in existing conditions was almost certain, and that it will be within reasonable a certain meeting of the Cabinet.

Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, was interviewed yesterday on the subject of the Behring dispute. He said:

"I do not see that the United States Senate could have done more than it has done in the matter. It has passed a resolution requesting the President to open negotiations with Great Britain for the settlement of the question, and I suppose that is the first step that will be taken. I do not think that the Senate has any power to go further than that. The President has the power to appoint commissioners to confer with commissioners appointed by Great Britain, and I suppose that will be done. I do not see that there is any other course open to the United States Government. I do not think that the Senate has any power to go further than it has done. I do not think that the Senate has any power to go further than it has done. I do not think that the Senate has any power to go further than it has done

A CLASH OF PARTY FEELING IN PARLIAMENT OVER LIVERPOOL.

The Government Left in a Minority of Seventy-Eight Upon the Queen's Speech—Text of the Vote—Sentiment Was Split—Marriage of Joseph Parnell and Mrs. Dickinson—A Duel in the Irish Parliamentary Party.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The election for member of Parliament for the Exchange Division of this city to fill the vacancy caused by the death of David Duncan was held today and resulted as follows: Mr. Dustin Hadderton, (Lib). Mr. Goschen, Conservative and Unionist, (C.U.). Five votes remain to dispute, and there will be a recount tomorrow at the new election. Duncan, Home Rule, received (HR), and Bailey, Conservative, (Cb).

The votes were counted from three to five tomorrow and a fourth recount was made by the Conservatives. The official announcement of the result was delayed until tomorrow. This is a serious reverse for Mr. Goschen, and the majority by opposing him has increased greatly to-day.

Sir Robert Campbell.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The defeat of Mr. Goschen is felt by the members of the Carlton Club to be a great party disaster. All the clubs were crowded to a late hour tonight, and there was much excitement over the result of the election. The absence of Mr. Goschen from the House of Commons during the Government's [illegible] position. From [illegible] should be provided with an experienced leader in the House for the next [illegible] and Mr. Goschen for the [illegible] Lord Randolph Churchill will probably be offered the leadership. England's foreign relations are friendly, efforts to ameliorate Europe are in a fair way of success, and Great Britain and Russia are working together for the peace of Europe. The Queen's relations with the Ameer of Afghanistan are cordial. The Queen's visit to Ireland has been productive of much good. The Land Purchase bill has been passed and has worked well. Measures will be introduced for the amendment of the Irish Land Act, for the relief of the Irish poor, for the amendment of the Irish Grand Jury laws, and for the establishment of a system of local government in Ireland. Measures will also be introduced for the amendment of the laws relating to the Scotch crofters, for the amendment of the Scotch Land Act, and for the establishment of a system of local government in Scotland. Measures will be introduced for the amendment of the laws relating to the Scotch crofters, for the amendment of the Scotch Land Act, and for the establishment of a system of local government in Scotland.

The speech is characterized by more than the usual vagueness. The tone of regret that the Ireland are especially absent. The only allusion to the Coercion bill is found in the reference to the plan of campaign and the Government's efforts to suppress it. The meeting will be held on the 31st inst. GLADSTONE'S WORK.

Suggesting a Constitution Similar to That of Canada.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Mr. Chamberlain writes to the Times an unobtrusive letter to show the practicability of the adoption of the Canadian Constitution in Ireland to meet the fundamental conditions of Lord Hartington's plan for the government of Ireland. In concluding Mr. Chamberlain says he never considered that the Canadian Constitution could be hastily transferred as an entire thing to the affairs of Ireland and Great Britain. The exact nature of an adaptation which would be suitable for the needs of Ireland is one of the questions on which he hopes that further discussion will throw light.

Mr. Chamberlain writing to a Glasgow paper, which favors the views of Chamberlain and protests against the Government's proposal to establish a Parliament in Dublin, says: "I am willing to accept Home Rule for Ireland, but I am not willing to accept it on the terms proposed by the Government. ## WANTS TO BE CHEERFUL

SCHWAB'S CONDUCT IN THE CRIMES CREEK JAIL AT BUTTE.

He Insists That the Fourth Inning of the Game of Which He Is Accused—His Examination Postponed to Feb. 5—Mysterious "Tom Cole" in the Block and Another Man with Confusing Testimony Regarding Schwab's Trip with Him.

BUTTE, Mt., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Henry Schwab, who was arrested in Chicago upon a telegram for complicity in the Bank Crimes Creek train robbery and the killing of Sidney Dillon, was brought to Butte last evening by Deputy Sheriff D. Burke of Chicago, Chief of Police Murray, and Detectives Welch of Butte. The prisoner was conveyed to the county jail and placed in the corridor with several other prisoners, among whom was "Tom Cole," a supposed accessory crook, who was arrested at this place. Now that a preliminary hearing has taken his Police Magistrate Woodbury for a preliminary examination. He entered the magistrate's office unbearing to wear a smile, and with apparent contempt to regard to the position. His correspondence, however, was decidedly unfavorable and even incongruous.

The officers from Gold and Chicago were present. State's Attorney Carter informed the prisoner that there was a charge implicating him in the Bank Crimes train robbery and murder.

The prisoner replied: "What is the charge?"

The attorney said that the charge was the killing of Sidney Dillon, the express messenger. Schwab decided, as was his privilege, inasmuch as he would lose none of his rights, to act for an affirmative, or that his Chicago attorneys, Case & Rogers, would be present, and suggested a delay of five days. After some discussion it was arranged to have the preliminary examination Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 5, at 2 o'clock.

Schwab talked freely with Sheriff Schrader and was taken back to jail, where your correspondent visited him. When he approached the grated door and said: "I do not know anything. Sometimes I seem to know anything. If I have anything about it I would tell you," and pointed to an opening in the door. "I do not know anything about it." He evaded the true facts and appeared to dwell in order for conversation as to who performed the charge. His surroundings seemingly interfered with his memory, and he was not in better condition to be sent to Butte away from the ordeal of an interview by saying that getting something good to eat brightened him more than anything else.

When Schwab was searched at the jail last night $60.75 was found upon him. The officers are now trying to ascertain how he became possessed of this money. He had gone when he was released on bail to the tobacco case at Chicago. The supposition is that some one slipped him the money in the meantime. The true solution has given rise to many speculations.

A stranger came to Corwith, Monday last, who is of the build of this prisoner. He was seen to go into the bank, and later with Schwab. Both were seen walking together in the vicinity of the bank. Schwab is also known to have been in the company of a stranger on the train which ran into the train.
